

JAKE'S JABS & JABBER

The first article on my own! Well, I can be as reflective as my brother, Clancy, the "Alpha" dog. But, I'm more the "law" type. When I have a bone to pick, I reflect on my LAW-ledge!

My back outside leg itched this morning. The Biomechanic Law that states the severity of the itch is inversely proportional to the itch was in full force. Being pretty agile, I can squirm around pretty far but I just couldn't reach it! My manipulative mind told me to tease Clancy into a dog-fight and so I got him to relieve that particular area. Creative thinking, yes?

There are other times when, well, my brother and I do silly and really daft phenomena. "The probability of being watched is directly proportional to the stupidity of your act." —Law of Probability 101.

Speaking of daft, I can be quite the performer. I do have poodle in me, you know, so I can dance on my back legs. I also performed in a theatrical show about puns one time. It was a play on words. Get it? See, I can be as funny as Clancy.

They're breaking me in as a greeter. I use my dance magic to see eye-to-eye with the shorter visitors as well as my officemates as they sit in their chairs. Some visitors like Cookie-man can't resist and picks me up. Who's training whom, here? (Wink, wink.) I'm worn out. Naptime!

Arfin' is Awesome; Yippin's so Yuckie!

- Jake

