Because of You . . .

St. Leo's struggle and its gift is its poverty. In order to continue and expand its mission and ministry to the community and our immigrant and refugee parishioners we need to reach out to others to help us through prayer, finances, and service. Through God's grace it becomes mutual blessing.

And so we thank you ...

Thank you again and again to the many donors, registered participants and sponsors for our students who supported the 2018 Hunger Walk on behalf of the St. Leo Food Pantry. All donations, registration fees, t-shirt fees and sponsor contributions go directly to our account at the FreeStore FoodBank, which should cover our food expense for the next year. We are deeply grateful.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE! The FreeStore Foodbank is accepting donations to support the 2018 Hunger Walk until June 30, 2018. If you haven't yet, you can still help us out. Go to: <http://freestorefoodbank.org/hungerwalk-saintleo-donate>

Many, many thanks to Patrick Rhode, and his donors and volunteers, who made it his Eagle Scout project to make our back door rectory entrance beautiful, inviting and welcoming by cleaning up, fixing up, painting and landscaping the entire area.

Many, many thanks to the donor who provided our much needed utility step stool for the Food Pantry. We are sincerely grateful!

Many, many thanks to the donor who so thoughtfully provided the funds to purchase a new stove for the rectory. The rectory staff truly appreciates your generosity!

Many, many thanks to the donor who responded to our Wish List and provided a small, chest freezer for the use of the St. Leo's youth program.

¡Gracias! Murakoze! Thank You!

We are deeply grateful for your continued and generous support. Our St. Leo the Great parish community promises to remember you and your loved ones in our private prayer, as well as in our communal prayer, which is to say that we are praying for you all the time. May our gracious God fill you with every blessing!

Pastor's Ponderings . . .

A big concern among advocates for justice for immigrants and refugees is taking a mother or father away from their family who needs them and returning someone to the very danger and violence in their home country from which they fled. Although they may have broken the law, they are not "hard and fast" criminals. Nor are they a danger and a threat to our country or to anyone. On the contrary, they can be a hard working provider and parent for their family. They can be involved with their parish community of faith and very good people. My St. Leo experience is teaching me this profound truth.

Many undocumented immigrants have children who are born in the USA and are American citizens by birth. If their parents are deported, what happens to them? I can't imagine having to decide if my child should stay or not stay in a country from which I am being deported! If the kids stay, what happens to them? I heard a story about an immigrant parent who approached an elderly woman in her faith community and asked her to take her child if she were to be deported. The elderly woman said, "I am so sorry. I would like to but I am just not able. I am too old." The immigrant woman responded that she understood but she wanted the elderly woman to understand why she still had to make the request. She said, "You are the only one I know."

Such situations, hardships, divisions and difficulties are enough to convince me that deportation is not the answer for immigration reform. There has to be a better way or other ways. I ask you to join with us in praying for immigration reform and doing whatever you can civilly to stop deportation. Calling and writing your representatives in Congress and joining social action efforts in your parishes and dioceses are still good things to do. This doesn't always seem to me to be effective but one voice when added to voices of others makes for a strong witness. We must keep trying.

Also, it is important to live the Law of Love for everyone right now. Love, kindness, holiness conquers fear and lets us know we are not alone. Love gives us the strength and proper attitude to accept the inevitable and to trust in God for direction and guidance. Love helps us see the good with the bad and points us in the way of new life and new opportunities. We can always depend on our faith and turn to God in time of need. The Lord hears the cry of the poor! Blessed be God! "I came not to condemn but to save," says the Lord. May the Church of God find clear ways to witness to the Good News of Jesus Christ especially for our immigrant and refugee families who are most in need right now.

Faith IS NOT KNOWING
WHAT THE FUTURE HOLDS,
BUT KNOWING

I am so thankful for all of our friends, partners, parishioners and the beautiful and wonderful diversity that makes up our parish community. Together, we are making a difference and sharing faith and being Church together makes the biggest difference for us all. We are growing our Sunday Mass attendance. Full to standing room only is a common occurrence at both of our weekend Masses. We have had the most people, adults and children, seek and receive the Sacraments of Initiation – Baptism, Eucharist or Confirmation or all three together during the entire Easter Season than we have had for a very long time. Our principal that "if we can learn to pray together, we can do anything together is bearing much fruit.

Much has been taken from our parishioners through the years and there is always the threat that more can be taken. But the one thing that has remained, and we believe always will, is our faith. This faith brings us to the Eucharistic table each week and our celebrations are deep and vibrant because we know how God has truly blessed us with each other and with loving hearts that keep on loving through all diversity and adversity. Although much can be taken, we still have much to give because the Lord came to give us life and to have it in abundance. This is our faith. It is the faith of the Church and we are all proud to profess it in Christ Jesus, Our Lord. Thanks for being Church and sharing your faith with us. Amen. Alleluia!!

— Fr. Jim

St. Leo's Prayer Wall is a place where all, regardless of age, race or creed, are invited to sing God's praises, give Him thanks, and/or call upon His presence for help in times of need. The wall, a place of prayer for all peoples (much like the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem), captures the faces of the community, as well as peacemakers and saints who have inspired us through the ages.

The Wall is a place for staff and volunteers, youth groups, community meetings, and for individuals who pass through our parking lot on the way to work, school, etc., to pray, reflect and pause. We invite you to share in this special way of prayer, joy, and thanksgiving. Praise God!

God cares about every need in your life and knows what you need even before you ask Him for help. Our St. Leo the Great parish community promises to remember you in our private prayer, as well as in our communal prayer, which is to say that we are praying for you all the time.

All prayer requests are held in strictest confidence. Send your prayer request to: Saint Leo the Great Church, 2573 Saint Leo Place, Cincinnati, OH 45225. You can also submit your prayer request online at: <http://saint-leo/WorksofMercy/PrayerWallMinistry.aspx>.

Dear St. Leo's Family and Friends,

As my internship comes to an end on May 30th, I wanted to extend my sincere thanks to you and to our partner parish, Our Lady of the Visitation. It was an exciting opportunity for me to join you in work, worship, and fellowship. What a blessing this has been to share our lives together, even for just a brief time.

The nine-month internship has proven to be an invaluable experience for me. You invited into your lives and shared your faith journey with me. I will forever be grateful. So many opportunities have been given to me and, because of your kindness, I learned so much about what it will take for me to continue on the road to priesthood. You have taught me so much that is not written in our seminary books. I believe I will be a better priest for knowing you, Fr. Schutte and the staff at St. Leo. I am humbled by your courage and faith in God. I was honored to be welcomed into your homes, to share meals and stories with you. Most of all, I was blessed to worship with you and experience people of many different cultures coming together as real brothers and sisters in Christ. I am grateful that you welcomed my own African culture. It gave me such hope that the gift of community experienced in our parish can, one day, be experienced in the larger world.

I will be visiting my family in Kenya for the month of June. I look forward to sharing with them about my St. Leo family in the US. I'll return to the seminary in the fall but I will be sure to return for a visit. I promise to pray for you, asking our loving God to preserve you in unity and truth. Please pray for me on this journey to priesthood. We are all on that journey to carry on Jesus' mission of sharing Good News. You have shared that Good News with me and others during my internship year. I pray that God will bring us together again.

Ending or Beginning . . .

It's that time of year when students don caps and gowns, wrap up classes and tests, say good-bye to school mates and teachers and move ahead in different directions. (See the story about St. Leo graduates on the front page.) Surely it is a time of transition; but is it a graduation--a completion of achieved goals--or a commencement--a beginning of a new stage of life? I believe it is both. And we all continue to have these kinds of experience until we take our last breath.

Each stage of life builds on the one that preceded it and it's important to do the needed work to grow and move ahead. Jesus talks about building a house on a good foundation and sowing seed in fertile soil. Life then is a pattern of both graduations and commencements that invite us to ongoing growth that is exciting though it is sometimes painful and takes us places beyond our comfort zones. We always have the choice to be like the student who complains that he'll never use algebra in "real life" and then shuts down in math class, fails, and learns too late that "real life" does require math. But what opportunities await us if we are willing to do the work and welcome change! Let's look at just a few examples:

Nearly 80 people made the choice to grow in their faith this Easter season as they came into the church, were baptized, received Eucharist, or were confirmed. It took a lot of preparation and prayer but the effects of the Spirit at work in them are almost palpable.

Just a few years ago St. Leo's food pantry moved into a larger space and had the ability to become a "choice" pantry where patrons are able to choose a specified number of items of food based on family size and the preferences of their families. It was new, different, and uncomfortable for some people. Leaving the old ways that are familiar is always a challenge but can also be opening a door to something new. The pantry building will soon have more space available for programs that will benefit the community. It's exciting to think about the possibilities.

St. Leo's was founded by German and Italian immigrants over 130 years ago and those traditions continue to run deep but it has also welcomed immigrants and refugees from Latin America and Africa in recent years and is growing and evolving into a wonderfully diverse community that still has the family spirit of its original parishioners.

The North Fairmount neighborhood is also in the process of renewal with increased community involvement and goals of improving the current housing stock, rehabbing abandoned houses, and possibly bringing in new housing. Working in Neighborhoods (WIN) has hired a full-time person to collaborate with housing efforts in North and South Fairmount and English Woods. A previously closed public school is now open as a Spanish language school, and community gardens are springing up in the neighborhood. For the health conscious there is exercise equipment in the Carl Street Park. There is a water park and free lunch there in the summer and it is a great place for families and friends to gather.

Change, like the sprouting leaves, is "busting out all over." It is exciting and sometimes scary. It can feel like the lump in the throat that graduates feel when they don their caps and gowns and leave the place where they grew and felt safe for so many years. It's not going to be the same, they realize. In fact when they return years later even that building that once seemed such a big part of their lives, will feel smaller, the halls narrower. That place--that experience had grown comfortable though there had been many ups and downs along the years. It was predictable and the next steps whether it would be another school or entering the work force will take them into unknown territory with new demands, new people, and mounting challenges--at least at first. And then the familiar pattern of graduation and commencement will surface and gradually they will realize that all will be well. In fact the best is yet to come.

—Angela Anno

"The Church must be open to change while rejecting a "controlling, hard, and prescriptive" style.

"... It is not useful to search for solutions in conservatism or fundamentalism," the pope said. "We are not living an era of change, but a change of era."

Christian doctrine, he added, "is not a closed system incapable of generating questions, doubts, queries, but it's alive, and able to unsettle, animate." Doctrine, Francis said, "has a face that isn't rigid, a body that moves and develops, it has tender flesh: that of Jesus Christ."

CLANCY'S CLICHÉ'S

It's daybreak. Not many footprints appear on the sandy beach. Doggie footprints mix with one or two other footprints. As the sun rises, more footprints appear down the same sandy path - imprints from so many people from so many worlds stretching down the shoreline. It seems the beach is teaching the lesson of the many journeys each of us has, yet shows we are really walking together as one and could be stronger and make a real impression.

The beach itself transforms depending on the tide, the trade winds, the weather, and the living creatures visiting the vast shoreline. And just like the beach itself, walking along and stepping into others' footprints can create a sense of journey, of reflection, of following or leading, of understanding, of solidarity, of compassion. We may walk on the same beach yet with a different weight or pattern. Our legs may surprisingly feel the stinging crashing of the wave, startling us out of our reverie, yet those same upsurges will wash anew the path before us. No matter what, we all create impressions and have the power to create change. Our steps move us forward. Perhaps we stop for a moment, letting the sand squish between our toes and disappear into the beach as waves lap at our ankles. The impressions we ourselves make may create a shift in others to do the same. Undoubtedly, a different person emerges from the experience the beach, and what life, has to offer.

Each step is a different impression. Every journey
